To the Lover of Browning:

I am sending you today one of our college publications. It is entitled "Browningiana in Baylor University" and is a catalogue of the material in our library having to do with the poet. There are only three hundred and fifty copies being issued in this form and I trust you will accept the work with our compliments in the hope it may have in it many items of general interest to the students of Browning everywhere. I desire to call your attention to the foreword and introduction which will give you some conception of Baylor's interest in all things connected with Browning.

Trusting the volume may find a home in your library, I am

Very cordially,

A. J. Armstrong

FOREWORD

For several years past that section of the Baylor University Library devoted to the works of and concerning Robert Browning has been growing rapidly under the direction of Dr. A. J. Armstrong. Just as rapidly grew the need for a full and complete bibliography of these works. Seeing the need, I undertook the making of this bibliography as the thesis for my A. B. degree.

I have found the work interesting, although it has been long and tedious, and I have received from it a greater realization of the far-reaching results of Browning's writing. I hope that the students who come to the study of Browning may be helped by this bibliography, and that it will be revised and additions made as the library grows.

I wish to express my appreciation for the assistance rendered in this work by many fellow students. But to Dr. Armstrong am I most greatly indebted —to Dr. Armstrong who, because of years of tireless study of this great master, is able to instil in the hearts of those who come to learn, a new philosophy of life, a doctrine of optimism and love, and an undying reverence for music, for art, for nature, and for God.

BAYLOR BROWNINGIANA

The Baylor collection of Browning material is probably the most extensive in America containing as it does one of the largest number of different books and magazines dealing with Browning yet collected. Prominent in the library portion are the almost complete set collection of first editions, books, drawings and papers from Browning's own library. But of equal importance are the Browning portrait painted by the artist son of the poets, Harriet Hosmer's original caste of the Clasped Hands, presented to Baylor University by Miss Lilian Whiting of Boston, and the large collection of personal letters secured when the poet's effects were sold.

Baylor's Browningiana is the outgrowth of the private library of Dr. A. J. Armstrong, head of the English Department, who during many years collected works concerning Browning. The English Department has added to the collection until it has reached its present constituency.

Among the interesting books is Browning's copy of Aeschylus, which is thought to have been the volume used in making his translation of the Agamemnon. The book is autographed and contains many marginal glosses in the poet's handwriting. Browning's copy of Anna Swanwick's translation of Aeschylus with illustrations after Flaxman, and Browning's copy of Homer in two volumes with marginal notes, are other valuable items.

The large collection of letters belonging to the Browning correspondence has been carefully catalogued. These letters concern themselves with the social side of the poet and have many of them been referred to in various works on Browning.

The English Department has collected all available music which has been written for poems of the poets. The collection will be found catalogued under the caption Music.

A word should probably be said on the subject of cross-referencing. It is the hope of the compiler that this Bibliography may be really useful to students studying Browning. With that in view many titles have been placed where one would most readily expect to find them. There have been tabulated almost invariably the subject, the author, the actual title, and the prominent word and thought. Articles on Mrs. Browning have been included, although no effort has been made to make such a bibliography complete.

Many articles referring casually to Browning have been included. Perhaps the scope taken is too great, but it must be remembered that this is an undergraduate's work and errors in judgment and in other ways are likely to be found.

The poem by Mr. W. G. Kingsland, of which a plate is given, has an interesting history. When Miss Aleph Tanner was making her collection of poems dedicated to Browning she found mention of several poems by Mr. Kingsland but could locate only one in time for inclusion in her book. Mr.

Kingsland was appealed to and furnished several poems, but one he could not locate. He said he remembered having written such a poem but he could find not the slightest trace of it. About the same time Dr. Armstrong happened to be in London and procured the large collection of letters just mentioned. Among the letters, was the poem sent to Mr. Browning by Mr. Kingsland. It is probably the only copy that ever existed.

It will be noted throughout the Bibliography that a number of poems exist still in manuscript. These poems will be published later as a supplement to Miss Tanner's Homage to Browning. See caption Homage to Browning: Supplementary.

Should anyone find a poem not included in this Bibliography, Dr. Armstrong would be very grateful for any information concerning it. A collection of Browning parodies is also being made, although it is hardly yet ready for publication. The list in hand is tabulated under Parodies.

The portrait of Robert Browning by his son, Robert Wiedemann Barrett Browning was secured by Dr. Armstrong and was presented to the University by the Senior Class of 1919. It is in a hand-carved frame of much beauty. The picture is one of two painted by the artist, the other portrait being among the valued possessions of Baliol College, Oxford.

To the exceeding generosity of Miss Lilian Whiting it is due that Baylor University possesses one of the three original castes of Harriet Hosmer's Clasped Hands. Miss Whiting was approached with a financial offer but she generously gave the priceless possession, although five thousand dollars had been refused previously for this prize. The presentation of the Clasped Hands to the University was one of the features of the Diamond Jubilee when with Edwin Markham in the chair, Vachel Lindsay, Harriet Monroe and Texas' own poet, Judd Mortimer Lewis, all vied to render homage to Robert Browning. Miss Whiting also gave the University some letters of Sarianna Browning, a number of her own books and a silhouette of Robert and Elizabeth Browning made by the son.

Splendid as is the collection already chronicled, it is hoped it is only a beginning and that in years to come Baylor University may become known as the Mecca of Browning material and thought. With that ideal, the Department of English openly requests gifts of any kind—small or great—that will in any way increase the completeness of its Browningiana.

Waco, Texas, June 5, 1921.

THE PORTRAIT OF ROBERT BROWNING
by his son, Robert Barrett Browning

To Robert Browning

O thou large-hearted Poet of our time!
Whose trumpet-verse — now sounding o'er that clime
Where soft Italian lispings thrill the soul,
And skies as fair as sunsets softly roll;
Now there' strong-hearted Northern rugged ways,
Where stormful seas inspire strange, wind-like lays —
So full with comfort, strong with storm-like thought,
Firm with full faith in God and man unwrought.
Sing on, O Poet of our wondrous age! —
Open yet wider Life's great mystic page
That reads before us broad on every hand,
Till lost in depths of God's Eternal Land!
Thy genius soars to Shakespeare's heights serene —
Thy kindly heart is greater far, I ween!

Very curious "Why are we born to suffer?" She has been in great pain. April 2, 1870.
She asks Browning to dine with her to meet Mlle. Mohl. June 13, 1870.
"Peter Simple could not more innocently"—and she proceeds to ask Browning to dine the following evening and to call whenever he can. June 25, 1870.
She reminds him of an engagement to dine with her.
She has to cancel an engagement for dinner because of the death of Lord Clarendon, an early acquaintance. June 27, 1870.

SALISBURY, G.

He is sorry that Browning will not be able to be with the Society on the 14th. June 8, 1882.

SANDFORD, JANE

She writes to renew an old acquaintance. May 5, 1868.
He has not answered her last letter so she writes Browning again. Feb. 28, 1869.
Very long and interesting. She tells him about herself. She has evidently known the Brownings for a long time. July 5, 1868.

SEELEY, J. R.

He asks Browning to lecture to the members of the University College, Oxford. Nov. 19th.
He begs Browning's pardon for persisting about the lecture, but he did not understand Browning's attitude towards lecturing. Nov. 15, 1868.

SIMON, O. J.

He writes Browning concerning the oppression of the Jews in Russia, and asks Browning's permission to sign his name to a requisition to the Vice Chancellor of Oxford about calling a meeting. 1882.

SKELTON, JOHN

He is sending Browning a copy of Fraser's Magazine, in which he has expressed his admiration for Browning's poetry. Mar. 16, 1863.

SMITH, J. BROWNING

He gives Browning some information about the early Brownings; together with a pedigree of the Browning and Smith families. 1873.

SMITH, ADAM S CLARKE

He says that he has some very valuable books of Mr. H. S. Boyd, some of which contain references to Mrs. Browning, and he asks Browning if he cares to buy them. 1887.
He says that he is sending Mr. Boyd's books to Browning and he tells something of their history. 1887.

SMITH, MARY
She asks Browning if he can give her any information about Salvini, who has suddenly left town. 1876.

SPEDDING, JAMES
Invites Browning to dinner to meet his mother. 1867.

STANLEY, DEAN
He encloses to Browning a letter from Mr. Knight which he has received asking him to inform Browning of the students choice for Lord Rectorship of the University of St. Andrews. 1877.

SUTHERLAND, WM.
Asking Browning if he will accept the nomination for the Lord Rectorship of the University of St. Andrews. 1884.

TAYLOR, JAMES
He asks Browning if he will be the candidate for the Lord Rectorship of Edinburgh University. 1883.

THOMPSON, S. R.
He sends Browning some flowers to congratulate him. In a post-script he announces a short series of articles on Browning's musical poems.

THORN, WM.
He sends Browning some information about the origin of some words. 1864.

TOMKINS, KATE
She sends Browning some poems which she has written and asks his opinion. May 18, 1887.
Browning evidently encouraged her to continue her work, for she writes thanking him for his kind words. June 9, 1887.

TREVELYAN, G. O.
He asks Browning for his support in the Ballot at the Athenaeum Club. 1877.

TULLOCH, WM.
Concerning the bestowing of the Lord Rectorship of the University of St. Andrews. 1869.

WALDSTEIN, CHARLES
He tells Browning about a passage in Thucydides which might form the ground work for a poem similar in character to those in his Dramatic Idyls. 1888.

WEBSTER, JAMES C.
He informs Browning that he has been made a member of the Athenaeum Club. 1862.

WELLWOOD, JOHN
He informs Browning of the desire of the University Independent Club that he be their candidate for the Lord Rectorship of Glasglow University. The envelope is endorsed in Browning's handwriting Rectorship of Glasgow University. 1876.

WILLIAMS, REV. J. D.
He has recently been made Vicar of Bottisham. He tells of an incident on St. Lukes Day when a Prof. of St. Andrews spoke on Browning. 1880.

WISEMAN, XAVIERE
Endorsed in Browning's handwriting From Cardinal Wiseman's Mother, R. B., '84. She expresses her pleasure in knowing that the Brownings had not suffered from the heat. She continues to say that they are very humble as to the political affairs. 1848.

WOODROFFE, L.
He asks Browning who is the subject of the lines The Lost Leader. 1870.
